

Editor's message

“A Tribute to the Grate Soul”

Dear Dr. B.S. Kushwah Sir,

No words could ever express our appreciation for the love and support you have shown to us. You were a source of inspiration and a devoted person towards this institution and a wonderful chairman to your faculty. We were blessed to have had your love and presence in our lives for so many years. Nothing I can say will ever convey the amount of gratitude, we all owe to you for showing us how to have the right attitude. Working for you was an honor, working without you was an absolute experience, working under you was a pleasure, an experience that we will truly treasure. Thank you Sir for converting our mistakes into lessons, pressure into productivity and skills into strengths while you were with us. You really knew how to bring out the best in us. Losing you has been a very painful experience.

Thank you for putting the needs of your employees ahead of those of the institution and your own. Apart from the decision making, communication and overall professionalism, the most important thing we have learnt from you is how to be a good human being. We will never forget your kindness. May God give you eternal rest and the family the strength to bear the great pain. You always stood out of all people by your wonderful character and your big heart. Those of us who got to know you were very lucky for having crossed paths with you, and you now have God by your side. Thanks to you we learned to be braver, because even though you were beat down by the disease every day, you transmitted energy to smile and move on with your life. We hope your soul rests with God. We now know that you have just departed to another life, we will remember you at every moment as you were an exceptional person, and knowing you will take care of our paths here on earth.

With respect always,

Dr. Gayathri Ramesh

Editor