

EDITORIAL BOARD MESSAGE

Nursing practice and education are unique and they can not be discussed independently. Development in nursing education depends on the evidence based practice which depicts standards of practice. It reflects the upliftment of technological applications for quality care. Our journal aims at the readers growth in nursing practice through the articles in each issue.

We take the opportunity to congratulate the colleagues and contributors for supporting in publishing the journal. It is only the 3rd issue. Hence we can say it is only in the newborn stage. We need support and encouragements of our contributors and colleagues to improve its quality gradually which also require supports to circulate the journal among our professionnel and readers.

We promise to improve its quality and to bring the journal up to the international level. However it needs support of the contributors of articles, readers and institutions to subscribe the journal and encourage in facing the challenges of improving its quality through wide circulation.

The editorial board is always ready to take your suggestions for improving the quality of the journal in the coming issues.

(Dr. Laxmi Rana)
Dean
Faculty of Nursing
Rama University Uttar Pradesh
Kanpur